"With an aim to spread knowledge"

Knowledge is the key to everything that we could think about. Acquiring it had been man's greatest desires since ages. With a sneak peek into the current educational system followed by 90% of the technological institutions, we might find it in a situation where it doesn't work for the creative minds. But, it's ok, there's a ton load of opportunities out there that they could work on. The real trouble for them is finding the right opportunity and availing the right mentoring in the right domain. IEDC is a potential change maker in this domain, with the right set of people and intention, it could revolutionize the way education is perceived in and across our state. Together, a real change could be brought into our ecosystem, transforming the lives of many.

Being at a position to reach out to these students, I strongly believe that we could make a real change in the way how things work in our educational network. We could get them the right set of information and mentoring necessary to prepare them to achieve their dreams and build a better future.
